Dar and Chew

Chew's mother was forced to have sex with her employer which got her fired when the baby was born, her mother became a prostitute and they moved to another city. Later Chew also became a prostitute, one of her customers rammed his fist up her uterus to his elbow which ruptured her and left her barren. Now in Chiang Mai we found her seven months pregnant living in this phone booth, the doctor was wrong. She agreed with the others to move into Abba House she had a baby boy and we named him Juda. They moved into another shelter that majored in infant care. AH works with teens.

We also found Dar living in this same phone booth.

She was kidnapped from her village and was put into a brothel, when she caught HIV they kicked her out, not knowing any other way to make money she sold herself to gang boys and homeless men for a bowl of rice. When she came to our program I gave her a bath seeing she had sores all over, wearing a wig she would not let me remove it. She learned how to make jewelry, cook and clean towards domestic work then she ran off not liking our boundaries. We do not believe she is still alive, no one has seen her and she was very sick. (Memory's Reviewed during lock-down)
